Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

Subscriptions are the life blood of newspapers. A publisher admires and respects his advertisers, but he loves his subscribers. It is therefore extremely painful to record the sundering of the ties that have bound this newspaper for many years to one of its old and staunch subscribers, because he disapproves of attacks in this column upon New Deal hypocricies and wastes. Nevertheless in maintaining our right to say what we please, within reasonable limits, in this column, we will defend the right of any reader to refuse to accept the paper, if what we say displeases him.

The editor philosophically can still admire the loyalty of the erstwhile subscriber, while deploring his judgment. There is this to be said about loyalties. It is far easier to be loyal to persons, than it is to principles. We love and are loyal to our friends despite their faults, or perhaps because of them. We prize their virtues so much that we regard their faults merely as a foil for their good qualities. To be loyal to a principle, an ideal, however, to most people is something of an abstraction. The principle, the cause, the ideal, whatever it is called, lives in the hearts of its converts.

Time may prove us mistaken of course, but we believe that Senator Wheeler of Montana is one man who sets allegiance to a principle above allegiance to a political leader. Memory runs back to the days when Robert Lafollette stormed into California in his campaign for the Presidency on the Progressive ticket and with him, the vice-presidential candidate, Senator Burton K. Wheeler, a man of dynamic force and, for his time, an extreme radical with many socialistic ideas of government. The The elder La Follette was not above gouging eyes and striking below the belt in political rough and tumbles, but Wheeler struck hard, clean blows straight from the shoulder in the campaign of 1924, in the battle for liberalism. At that time Franklin D. Roosevelt was supporting for the Presidency John W. Davis, high type Wall Street lawyer and arch conservative.

During the boom of 1928 and 1929, Wheeler was in the Senate fighting to curb monopolies, while, according to Alva Johnson, writing in the Saturday Evening Post, Roosevelt was in Wall Street busily organizing the Consolidated Automatic Merchandizing corporation, which proposed to create a monopoly of the vending machine business, promising enormous profits.

It was during the corrupt Harding administration that Wheeler exposed the rascalities of the unspeakable Harry W. Daugherty, attorney general, who was to Harding what Farley is to Roosevelt. This exposure of Daugherty, the Tea Pot Dome scandal, virtually disgraced the Harding administration. If any one ever deserved the euphoneous title applied to Al Smith by Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Happy Warrior, it is Burton K. Wheeler. For long before Roosevelt blossomed into a national hero, Wheeler had been leading the fight for the under-dog.

Wheeler, who in the main approves most of the Rooseveltian reforms, has broken with the President on the court plan, and will probably lead the Democratic opposition to the President in Congress when it convenes Monday. At great risk to his political future he has adhered to principle, his ideal of liberalism, and foresworn personal allegiance to a leader that he feels has strayed.

The factors in the political field are kaleidoscopic, changing shapes and color with every day's development. It is too early to prognosticate, but at this moment Senator Wheeler looms well above other Democratic possibilities as a candidate for the Presidency in 1940. He had a difficult choice to make, but had the courage to make it and America still puts moral courage at the head of the class in virtue.

FUND FOR BUYING INHALATOR GROWING

Charivari Begins At North San Juan and Ends at Alleghany

By KATHERINE BRAITHWAITE

One of the largest charivaris ever held in the mining country started in North San Juan last Sunday evening and ended in Alleghany in the wee hours of Monday morning.

The occasion was the marriage Saturday November 6th, in Reno of Mrs. Alma Jarvis of Birchville to Mr. Leslie Woods of North San Juan, by Judge Moran of the Nevada metropolis.

Mrs. Woods is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Thomas of Birchville. Mr. Woods is the son of Gordon Woods of North San Juan. Both of the young people are descendants of pioneer families and have lived on the Ridge all their lives.

This popular young couple returned to North San Juan early Sunday evening. Immediately their many friends surrounded them and escorted them to the Forty Niner Club House where the genial proprietor, Jack Brooks, served many toasts to the young people's happiness.

The bridegroom is employed in the Sixteen to One mine at Alleghany and they will make their future home in that district. When Mr. Woods started for that town with his bride practically the entire town of North San Juan lined their automobiles behind them and followed them home.

The huge crowd flocked into the Pioneer Club and enjoyed the entertainment and hospitality sponsored by Mrs. Freida Hardie. Later in the evening Mr. Jack Bowden of the Kanaka club entertained with Hawiian music and dancing.

The crowd then armed themselves with tin cans, bells and rice and took possession of the newly married couple's home. Mrs. Freida Hardie furnished the music for the home entertainment and Melvin Ranenes delighted everyone with his splendid voice when he sany many appropriate songs.

NOR. SAN JUAN MEETING HELD BY HYDRAULIC ASSN.

By KATHERINE BRAITHWAITE

North San Juan was hostess last Saturday evening to the regular meeting of the California Hydraulic Miners Association, and as usual with all entertainments staged in this historical mining camp, the affair was a huge success.

The directors of this association convened at six o'clock in the National Hotel where Mrs. Anna Bradbury served one of her famous chicken dinners. This old time hostelry, which was erected in the early days, has always been a favorite meeting place for mining men.

At eight o'clock the regular meeting of the association was held in Twamley Memorial Hall with president George Hallock officiating. Every seat in the large hall was filled with members and their guests and business of great importance to the industry was conducted.

Speeches were made by Judge Don Bass of Roseville, E. G. Kinyon of Grass Valley, C. E. Clark of North Bloomfield, W. P. Clerkin of North San Juan, and Ted Janiss of Nevada City. These pointed out the benefits Nevada county and its surrounding regions will receive when the debris dam is completed on the Upper Narrows of the Yuba river.

After the meeting was adjourned dancing and a general social time was enjoyed. Wade Owen, chairman of the North San Juan unit of the C. H. M. A. furnished a four piece orchestra which was much appreciated.

BASEMENT FIRE IN JEFFERY HOME

Faulty wiring furnished the spark for a fire in the basement of the William Jeffery home on Sacramento street last night. The fire occurred shortly after nine o'clock in the evening. Two fire trucks were on the spot immediately after the fire was discovered and Nevada City's alert firemen soon had it under control. Little damage was done to the house itself, but some goods stored in the basement were ruined.

Mr. Jeffrey said that when he first discovered the fire he attempted to puit it out with the garden hose. He was nearly overcome by the smoke, he said, and was unable to reach the flames with the hose. Jeffrey said had the fire occurred a little later his household would have been asleep and the small basement fire might have had much more serious consequences.

STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Latest reports from the bedside of Mrs. Julia Weber, native of Nevada City, who was injured in an auto accident in the bay district several days ago, are that she is still unconscious. Mrs. Mary Orzalli and Thomas Coan of this city are sister and brother of Mrs. Weber.

CIVIC CLUB VOTES GENEROUS DONATIONS

Much business was accomplished at Monday's meeting of the Nevada City Woman's Civic club. Several impotant questions were brought up, discussed and voted upon.

Believing in community harmony, cooperation and the furthering of the Christmas spirit the ladies decided to again sponsor a community Christmas tree. Any person or organization who would like to aid in this project or make suggestions please communicate with the club president, Mrs. James Penrose.

It was proposed that the club do something for the high school this year The ladies realizing the heavy burden the tax payers have been under to provide the beautiful new building for the school children, decided to assist by donating some much needed equipment. They voted to give $50 to the high school to purchase flat silver to be used in the home economics department of the school.

Mrs. H. E. Kjorlie club treasurer reported that the club net $36 on the dinner which they gave for the Parent Teachers convention held here in October and that the money had been turned over to the Nevada City fire department as ureviously voted to be used on the inhalator which the firemen propose to buy for the use of the community. This is in addition to the $20 donated which was previously voted from the club treasury.

Also as is its annual custom the club voted to give $5 to the disabled veterans fund. This money will be used for the welfare of the veterans in the hospital at Palo Alto. The next club meeting will be November 22. The program will be announced later.

MRS. DAVIS'S TALK INTERESTS AAUW

The meeting of the American Association of University women held at the home of Mrs. Raglan Tuttle Wednesday evening was a most delightful affair. Members and their guests assembled in the charming drawing rooms of the Tuttle home and at 7:30 a brief business meeting was opened by the club president, Vivien Billick.

Following the business meeting, Mrs. H. P. Davis was presented as guest speaker of the evening and delighted her audience with word pictures of her native land Norway, the story of her twelve years spent in Haiti where she enjoyed a delightful life on a large plantation and also a picture of a three weeks stay in far north Spitzenberg.

The Tuttle home was beautifully decorated with clusters of chrysanthemums for the occasion. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Fritz Tobias and Mrs. Williard Durbrow.

NEW CHARTER FOR TROOP 24; COURT OF HONOR

Boy Scouts, Cubs and Camp Fire girls along with their parents, friends and sponsoring organizations Tuesday evening met in Seaman's lodge for a double header event. The new Scout troop No. 24 of which Wallace Leslie is scoutmaster and which the Nevada City Rotary club is sponsor, received its charter and its flags from Andrew Larsen chairman of Rotary scout committee. Scout Troop No. 6, which the Native Sons have sponsored over nearly a generation and of which Elmer Marriott is chairman, held a court of honor and demonstrated the beautiful investiture ceremony with candles.

H. M. Leete for the Rotary club and Dr. C. W. Chapman for the Native Sons presided at the meeting. Harris Ricksecker, Tahoe Area scout executive directed the award of merit badges and achievement emblems, and John Fortier presided at the court of honor. Short talks were given by the above and by Scoutmaster Leslie. Sam Partridge, Eagle Scout of Grass Valley and assistant scout master there, displayed the film story of his trip as a delegate to national scout encampment at Washington, D. C. and to the international jamboree in Holland this last summer. It was an impressive showing of the world wide influence of scouting and great variation but essential unity of the Scouts in two score or more countries in which scouting is a well established institution.

The following awards to scouts were made by the court of honor:

Tenderfott badges: Bob Farmer, Bob Bonner, Gino Benuzzi, Dick Evans, Leland Smith, Warren Smith, Umbert Sogg, Ed McGovern, all of troop 24 and Bill Turner of Troop 6.

Second Class Scout badges: Douglass Noble, Troop 6.

First Class SScout badges: Dick Gregory, William Hullende, Peter Sowden, all of Troop 6.

Merit badges: Joe Widauf, Bird Study; Ted Edinger, Art, Swimming, Personal Health, Handicraft; Vincent Lewis: Swimming; Dick Gregory, Art.

Ten Service Stars went to P. Sowden, F. Alderson, L. Butz, V. Lewis, R. Gregory, J. Widauf, J. Muscardini, W. Muscardini, M. Hullender, G. Forman, Dr. Noble and Ted Eddinger.

In opening the court of honor, John Fortier paid high tribute to Dr. C. W. Chapman, as the "father of scouting" in Nevada City and recounted his own experience in belonging to the Troop No. 1 of Nevada City, which was not only the first troop in Nevada City, but the first in California and the West. He told of the handicaps imposed upon it and the opposition it aroused from owners of pool halls and other resorts.

RUSSELL B. FARLEY RECEIVES PROMOTION

Russell B. Farley, state liquor control officer of Nevada City has been promoted to supervisor of the 12th district, composed of eight northern counties. His new title will be Supervising State Liquor Control Officer. The district office of the board is located in Marysville, Yuba county, but Mr. Farley expects to remain a resident of Nevada county and work throughout the district from Nevada City.

He has been employed ten years with the state of California, first starting as a printer monotype operator (typesetting machine) in the state printing office, later transferring to the enforcement staff of the State Board of Equalization.

Mr. Farley moved to this city about three years ago and has been one of the state's most faithful workers traveling about his district at all times of the day and often far into the night to enforce rules and regulations.

He completed fingerprinting Nevada City liquor licensees Wednesday and will start fingerprinting Grass Valley licensees this Friday morning at the sheriff's office in Nevada City. This well earned promotion comes as good news to Mr. Farley's wide circle of friends.

Englebright Reviews Legislative Benefits

Congressman Harry L. Englebright left last evening for Washington, D. C. to attend the special session of Congress called by President Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mrs. Englebright accompanied him. They went to Sacramento and took the train from there. A short visit was made with their son, Jackson Englebright who is attending Junior College in Sacramento and will not accompany his parents east.

This special session will call for studying farm legislation, labor legislation and government reorganization with possibly some conservation measures such as TVA development coming up.

The regular session of Congress will open January 3 at which time appropriations for various lines of development in the states will be given consideration and passing. Specifically in this line will be the dams in this area where progress is being made rapidly and actual construction work should start in the spring. The foundations for the different dams are being tested now. Plans on all three projects Rucky-Chucky, American River and Narrows Dams are rapidly drawing to a point where it will be possible to apply for construction bids before long. Congressman Englebright stated there is a million and a half dollars already allotted to start work.

In all the mining areas affected by these big hydraulic debris dams mining companies are making preparations for operations. Several properties are employing men among them is the Omega gravel property in the Narrows Dam area, for big time operations as soon as the dams are built.

This session of congress will secure additional appropriations to carry the work further. Appropriations are made each year as they are needed.

As to the rumors going about over the gold market, as to the change in the price of gold, Congressman Englebright stated there is no foundation to them. He keeps in close touch with the treasury and other departments at Washington and no change in the price of gold is anticipated. Another thing that most people do not realize is that it will take an act of Congress to lower the price of gold. The president of the United States has no power to lower the prices. He can, however, raise the price if he finds it necessary.

Congressman Englebright plans to take up road construction, National Parks and forest reserves, mines and roads are also a very important part of his district. He has spent practically all his time since he returned to California going over his district studying the needs of each section, ald checking work starting on the various projects. He has been in his home city collectively eight days since his return.

At the present time close to $17,000,000 is being spent in this district and lists as follows.

Forest service highways, $585,000.

National Parks, roads and trails, $432,000.

Federal aid to roads, on main highways in his congressional district, $1,000,000.

Rural hydro-electric development in Eastern Sierra, Plumas and Lassen counties projects, $785,000.

Improvement in administration in Yosemite and Lassen national parks, $336,000.

Hydraulic mining dams, $1,500,000.

Central Valleys, $12,500,000.

The total of this sum is about $17,000,000 for this special legislation.

Then he stated there are several millions of dollars to be spent for various developments and improvements in other lines of pursuit in the district for federal activities.

In summing up the outlook for his district he stated the mining activties are very bright for both the hydraulic and quartz mining interests. When rumors come out about the rise and lowering in the price of gold people must realize the $35 value is the basis of credit for the leading nations of the world. Any changes would have a tendency to shake this stabilization.

The members of the Nevada City Rotary club and their ladies enjoyed a jolly dinner-dance last evening. They gathered at the National Hotel and at 7 o'clock assembled for dinner. In the absence of president H. M. Leete, past president Frank Finnegan presided and acted as toast master. It was a fine dinner and there was much jollity and "plenty" fines imposed. Some pretty heavy ones for the more facietious.

Following the dinner the group proceeded to Seamans Hall in Pioneer park where several hours were spent in dancing. A number of Rotarians from Grass Valley and their ladies were present.

Take "Curt" Out of Courtesy

Who's the most important person in your company? President? Sales manager? Personnel manager? No, on all three, according to John R. Tunis, well known American author.

The most important person in every outfit, he writes in the current Rotarian Magazine, is the man or girl who has customer contact.

"If you have contact with the public by letter, telephone, wire, or word of mouth," he urges, "you represent your company. If you happen to be the first person to reach the public, you are the most important cog in the organization. From you the stranger gets his impression of the company, an impression that stays in his mind forever. Two minutes have secured lifelong customers, and they have made lifelong enemies.

"What sort of person do you care to do business with, the man who growls into the telephone: 'Gimmemistersmithenifheisnttheregimmemisterhogan,' or the pleasant voice which responds, 'Good morning, this is the Riverside Hotel'?

Courtesy not only gets business, it holds business," continues Mr. Tunis. "Ten years of sound business dealings have been spoiled by ten seconds of discourtey. A corporation executive checked and discovered that his company was spending over half a million dollars each year to get new business, but almost nothing outside regular channels to hold the business it had. He decided to spend $5,000 on an adjuster, a man who spent his whole time on clients and former clients, ironing out disputes, seeking causes of loss of business, and finding out whether the company's service was satisfactory. In one year the number of customers dropping from this concern's books declined 62 per cent.

"What a difference it would make if all corporations acted on a policy of courtesy. What a difference if the honest businessmen of the nation paid as much attention to courtesy as the gyps, crooks, fly-by-night promoters, and scalawags who have only one stock in trade—a courteous address and manner. What a difference if business became polite and stay-e dpolite, not only to the public but to itself. In short, what a difference if we all took the curt out of courtesy." — The Rotary Magazine.

LADIES AID SOCIETY

Fifty members of the Placer-Nevada county Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist church enjoyed a regional meeting and luncheon in the church parlors at Nevada City Wednesday afternoon. After a dainty luncheon a splendid afternoon session was held. It was presided over by Mrs. W. Howard, district president of Sacramento. Mrs. C. Lawson, conference officer of Roseville also took part in the service.

Mrs. Ellen Walmsley and little daughter went to San Francisco Tuesday evening to spend a few days on business.

Through the facilities of the Post Office Department. Report Cards will be delivered to every family. Cards are to be returned by mail to Washington for tabulation and analysis.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

Doctor D. L. Hirsch of Grass Valley honored the Nevada City high school student body Wednesday with a speech on Armistice Day. The students thoroughly enjoyed it as it was inspirational as well as amusing. He said he hoped for everlasting peace and the way to obtain it was to be at peace with ourselves.

The high school chorus has been learning college songs, namely: "Hail to California," "Hail to Stanford," "California Hymn" and the "Stanford Hymn." They plan to sing at institute and show their fine progress made under the direction of Mrs. Libbey.

The rooters club at high school has bought caps to wear during games. They are very attractive, purple and gold with an N on them. They will add much color at the games and indicate those who are members of the rooters club.

The progressive dinner to be given by the Home Economics Club has been postponed until after the vacation. Courses of the dinner will be enjoyed at Sylvia Ronning's home, Kathryn Saban's home and Doreen Foreman's home. A fine menu and mmany amusements have been planned and all the members of the club are looking forward to an enjoyable time.

DR. HOWARD NAFFZIGER IS ACCORDED HONOR

Doctor Howard Naffziger, born and reared in Nevada City and who received his early education in the local schools and is now an eminent specialist was accorded honor by the American College of Surgeons at its annual Congress in Chicago in October is reported in a University of California bulletin which follows:

LETTERS OF ADMINISTRATION

Through his attorneys, Jones and Finnegan, Charles A. Harris has filed for letters of administration on the estate of Marcelene Harris who died in March 1937.

Nineteen Years

Nineteen years!
Yet it seems but yesterday they marched away.
Nineteen years-
The glowing crown of their youth now touched with gray.
Nineteen years!
And the world has not yet learned the path of peace.
Nineteen years!
And the tremblings of that day doth but increase.
Nineteen years!
We pause to pay to the dead our gift of tears.
Nineteen years!
Do those who sleep in Flanders join in our fears?
Nineteen years!
Regarnished the memory of their great goal.
Nineteen years!
Is their hope of quiet seas a rock-strewn shoal?
Nineteen years!
Despite the threat of greed to overthrow;
Nineteen years!
Despite our wayward stumbling yet we know:
Nineteen years!
That they who sleep in yonder alien clime.
Nineteen years!
Count not as we the flowing river of time
Nineteen years!
And that however slothful we may be to learn
Nineteen years!
The way they gladly visioned for which we yearn
Nineteen years!
That while each year we pay to them our tribute
Nineteen years!
Their spirit shall be with us, however mute
Nineteen years!
To lighten the darkest hour and point the way
Nineteen years!
To that for which they suffered—the perfect day.

Insulation

Another new home in Nevada City is being fully insulated ceilings and side walls with Palco Wool.

This is the new residence being constructed by Contractor Roy Madsen for Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Harris.

Palco Wool is a new name for a much improved product. All dust and dirt removed from shredded redwood bark makes this insulation the equal of similar material, costing more than three times as much.

Take your square footage and three cents per square foot will pay for the material to insulate the ceiling of your home.

Ceiling areas are responsible for about 85 per cent of heat infiltration in summer and a corresponding heat loss in winter. Stop this waste and save fuel.

Let us advise you on insulation problems.

New pupil: "Daddy."

JUST WONDERIN'

I wonder that such trifling things
Can cause a bitter fight,
Like this one which I heard and saw
At uncle Ned's last night;
"What would you call a female sheep?"
Inquired his good wife, Sue,
And then she flew into a rage
When uncle answered, "ewe."

I wonder how many quarrels, misunderstandings and estrangements have their inceptions in trifles lighter than air. Little gnat like annoyances—a glance, a word, the turn of a head, the tone of a voice, misinterpreted, magnified a thousand fold and given a place of undue importance in a jaundiced mind, may lead on to bickering and strife, disrupted friendships and unavailing regret.

As it is with individuals so it is with larger groups and aggregations of human beings. At the present time we are dismayed by the outrageous spectacle of great and powerful nations squabbling and quibbling over difficulties which could be speedily adjusted, if world leaders were able to bring a modicum of reason, intelligence and human understanding to their long drawn out and seemingly futile conferences.

And here in America, John Lewis and William Green! Why don't they kiss and make up? The workers themselves, as well as the public at large are paying rather heavily for this interminable season of wrangling and absurd debate.

I wonder if Mayor LaGuardia's success in winning New York's mayoralty race, induced James Farley to observe the hand writing upon the wall, merited a congratulatory note from Herr Hitler, and caused both old parties to see a bright light. It's a short step from the mayor's office to the governorship, and New York governors maye remarkably good presidential timber.

I wonder if we do not all agree that — The Hounds of Heaven—The Voice of Bugle Ann—and—Savage Dog—by our own Jack Wolf, are the three best dog stories to appear in printe for over a decade.

I wonder if Harold named the dog Sic Semper, in order to convince the neighbors that the study of Latin was a part of his college foot ball course.

I wonder if you came across this little tongue twister during the Hallowe'en season—

"Supposin' the witches began to witch,
And you couldn't tell which witch was which—well,
supposin'."

If these magic lines are repeated rapidly, the articulatory powers will be tested quite thoroughly.

—A. MERRIAM CONNER.

SURVEY SHOWS HIGH HOG PRICES MAY CONTINUE

BERKELEY, Nov. 8. — Heavier hogs, but a smaller supply are in prospect for the remainder of the fall and winter marketing season, according to a survey of the industry made by the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of California.

With the prospect of a somewhat smaller tonnage, hog prices during this period will probably average as high as they did for the same period of 1936-1937, providing the same high level of consumer demand is maintained. Hog prices in July and early August of this year were the highest in eleven years.

Drought conditions and high feed prices have accounted for the present shortage of market hogs. But the heavy corn crop in prospect is expected to have its effect on the size of the animals. Chiefly because of the short supply and high prices of feed grains last winter, the 1937 spring pig crop was 7 per cent smaller than that of 1936.

However, the study points out the movement of high prices during the current marketing year was "very unusual". Prices rose in a period when they normally decline, and vice versa; and the volume and supplies also did not run as usual.

DRIVER GOES TO SLEEP, CAR ROLLS OVER BANK

CAMPTONVILLE, Nov. 11.—Six persons narrowly escaped with their lives early Sunday morning when the car of A W. Chapman, being driven by Ray Shimer, went off the Yuba Pass highway a short distance above the J. A. Cassano property, turning over and landing on the mountain side up side down. The young couple were returning home from Downieville when the driver dosed off to sleep for a moment. None of the occupants were injured except for the occasional bump and bruise, the car considerably damaged was brought back to the road and to town by the Lang Garage wrecker.

PECULIAR TO THE COUNTRY

(By Clayton Rand)

The American weekly newspaper is a product peculiar to our own soil and genius—it does not exist in any of the older nations of the world.

The part it plays in the development of the nation is common knowledge. Its influence upon the habits and thought of the people is generally known.

If democracy, as we know it, survives it will be constantly renewed from the crossroads—it will not be saved from Chicago, New York or Washington.

If Italy, Germany or Russia had a rural press, free to speak the thought and convictions of its people, it would turn their dictatorships wrong-side-out and up-side-down overnight. A healthy and prosperous weekly press is vital to the preservation of the American Ideal of free government.

DON'T SIGN ANY BLANK CHECKS, WARNS WRITER

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

If a stranger suddenly accosted you on a street corner, presented a blank check and asked you to sign on the dotted line—what would you do?

You might call a cop or summon an alienist.

You might lead with your left and cross with your right.

You might march by in high dudgeon, muttering, "What's the country coming to?"

But you certainly wouldn't sign. That's asking a bit too much—even in an era of "share the wealth."

On the other hand, if the same stranger presented a petition to double your tax bill, there's a good chance you'd sign without hesitation.

And if the presumptuous fellow submitted a second petition revoking your right to equal representation with your fellow citizens in matter of government, you might again reach for your fountain pen and jot down your endorsement.

Preposterous! Perhaps, but nonetheless hundreds of thousands of California voters are just that preposterous every two years, signing petitions for scores of initiative proposals without even knowing their contens. It's the political equivalent of signing a blank chack—yet petition circulators boast that one out of every five voters will sign any petition submitted-

Voter carelessness in signing petitions for measures which would be disastrous to themselves and the entire state—except for the fact that other more cautious voters usually repudiate the dangerous proposals at the polls— is chiefly responsible for the ever-lengehtning California ballot, loaded with 20 or 30 proposed initiative acts at each election.

The subject is of current importance because petitions either are in circulation, or will shortly be placed in circulation, for the dangerous "Single Tax"-Sales Tax Repeal Act, which would more than double the tax bills of farmers, home owners, business men and other common property taxpayers and for the One-House Legislature proposal, which would deny rural California fair representation in the state legislature.

Each of these proposals, to qualify for a place on the 1938 ballot, will require the signatures of 186,378 registered voters. It is a safe assumption that if every voter, when approached, looked on an initiative petition as a blank check—and took the trouble to read the terms of the agreement — both measures would fail to qualify.

But if history repeats itself, one out of five (far more than the required number) will sign without question! And taxpayers, property owners and other persons endangered by such legislation will be compelled to spend thousands of dollars in voter education campaigns to prevent their enactment. And many of the same voters who signed the petitions will complain, when they go to the polls on election day, that "the ballot is loaded with crack pot legislation!"

Perhaps it is worthwhile, just on the possibility that the ratio of one-out-of-five can be reduced, to list what the two proposals propose:

The "Single Tax" scheme, overwhelmingly beaten at many previous elections, is a modification of the old Henry George plan to make land carry the entire burden of taxation. It would repeal the state sales tax, which goes largely to the support of the public schools—and put the load on land It would repeal the present constitutional provision limiting the state taxes on land to 25 per cent of total appropriations. It would eliminate (over a ten year period) all taxes on improvements and tangible personal property—again placing the burden on the land In addition, it would repeal the use tax and the motor vehicle "in lieu" tax—and transfer this load to the farmer, homeowner and business man also.

The One House Legislature proposal would alobish the state senate—rural California's house in the legislature and give the cities complete dominance in all legislative matters. I would require that the farmer present himself, hat in hand, to ask favors of city legislators, instead of making known his desires through his own duly elected members.

Superintendent F. R. Garrison ot this division of the state highway, spent last Friday in Sacramento and Marysville. He presided at a special meeting of the Peach Bowl Chapter Friday evening.

Elton Rodda, Grass Valley youth and popular in both Nevada City and his home town, is critically ill in Jones Memorial hospital where he underwent an appendix operation.

Miss Ruth Curnow, who is attending University ow San Francisco in San Francisco, spent last week end in this city with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Curnow.

Tony Cartoscelli, who suffered an injury in football at high school last week, is improving.

Mrs. Byron King, sister of Mrs. E. T. Bonner of this city is ill in the Jones Memorial hospital in Grass Valley.

The WEEKLY CONSTITUTIONAL

by MAX BERNS

Power for Mischief

Have we any protection against the danger of an all-powerful central government?

In his inaugural address in 1861, Lincoln said: "By the frame of the government under which we live our Constitution, this same people have wisely given their public servants but little power for mischief; and have, with equal wisdom, provided for the return of that little to their own hands at very short intervals."

Our Constitution divides our government into three independent branches, limits the power of each branch and provides that this power be "returned to the hands of the people" by periodic elections of Congressmen, Senators and the Executive. These stipulations cannot be altered by Congress or the Executive or the Courts, as our Constitution can be amended only by the people.

In these ways, "we the people," in our Constitution, "give public servants but little power for mischief."

SNOW AT JUNCTION

Jack Rondoni, who is in charge of the Arctic mine above Washington drove to Nevada City Wednesday morning in a snow storm. He stated there was about an inch of snow on the ground.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elliott and son came from Nevada state to Nevada City a little over eight years ago and have made many friends who are sorry to see them leave and hope for their return to this city at some future date.

SNOW PLOWS ALREADY OUT

Superintendent Fred Garrison of the division of highways in this district received a call at 4 o'clock Wednesday morning to go out on the Downieville highway and remove two large trees that had been blown across the road in the havy wind storm during the night.

The first snow of the season started falling on the Tahoe-Ukiah highway as far down as the Junction of the Washington road at five o'clock Wednesday morning. Mr. Garrison sent two snow plows and crews out to keep the roads clear for traffic. It was stated about three inches of snow fell during the forenoon and it continued to fall all day in the upper sections of the county.

News reached Nevada City last evening that ten inches of snow had fallen at Sierra City.
